Brevetted Commissioners.—We are authorized to announce R. M. COMBS a candidate for the office of Sheriff of Breathitt county, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

There has been much talk about a railroad to tap this country, and that one must and will come before another decade there can be no doubt in the mind of any intelligent man. The immense amount of coal all kinds can be found in this section; the great quantity and varieties of timber of every kind of all kinds; the fine coal bed and iron ore, to say nothing of the prospect we have for silver, lead, &c., must bring us a railroad at no distant day. While we possess all these things, and more to come yet too poor to build a railroad. The citizens of Montgomery should own a railroad from this section to Mt. Sterling, and it would be a good idea to let it to us if we have one. The Kentucky and South Atlantic can be purchased, we presume, and if it can be, Mr. Sterling can be the "Golden Gate City to the East." No other road in the State now does, could ever do, the business in freight that such a road would command from the time it was built. If every short-haul road would donate the purchase-money of a bull calf towards a railroad to this section, and the county would vote a property tax of one percent per annum for three years, this section would make Mt. Sterling second to no town in the State. All of our products would be emptied into her lap, and from there find its way to other markets, but not until Mt. Sterling had collected her tolls. Let us have the railroad by all means.

In the primary in this country, between Hon. J. M. Kash and Col. L. M. Day, for Commonwealth's Attorney, the latter received a majority of 35 votes, and will therefore be elected. A district election on the 27th of this month as the choice of Wolfe for that important office. Mr. Kash was personally our choice, but we shall give Col. Day our undivided support, and do all we can to secure his nomination. Col. Day will make a good prosecutor, and by the next year he can be in the Senate. He is well known in the district as an able lawyer, a Christian gentleman and sober, discreet citizen, and will find friends in the convention on the 27th of this month to give him the nomination.

We are constantly in receipt of fruit and vegetable kinds and of the families, from our friends in this section, for which we are very thankful. We enjoy fruit of all kinds, such little acts of kindness show that humble efforts to give the people a part worthy of them are appreciated, and last, though by no means least, the attention of capitalists will be directed to this section as a future market. Mr. Wolfe, Mr. Kash, Mr. Day, Powell, Morgan and Meissner be sure to amount of fruit produced, taking the acreage planted into consideration? We doubt it, and any horticulturist who will come here and investigate for himself will endorse our opinion.

Want—Fifty thousand Soles and 2000 pounds of tobacco to go to Mr. Kash, her neighboring counties and plant vineyards. Good citizens of all other nationalities are also invited. Those who understand grape culture will find our cheap, though rich lands, a profitable investment, and were the coal-measles will set in grapes, this country would present the same thirty appetites as the vine-clad hills of Germany and France.

J. Olearnagrine Hodges, in the Lexington Daily Observer, is getting up a new little paper—quite a breezy sheet—exceedingly windy, we might say—but there's Moore in it than he writes.

The Hazel Green Herald Gets Fired.
(Lexington Observer.)

Mr. Spencer Cooper, the editor of the Hazel Green Herald, was born in Lexington lately in his thirties, and the boys seem to have mixed drinks on him a little. He brings his tongue to bear upon the subject of the "newspaper" in the office, the witness says Mr. J. M. Corbin will get the County Attorneyship. If this act is not made with Mr. Spurr for County Surveyor. Anybody that could sight a man, could certainly ought to be able to do so.

Now, if John Olearnagrine Hodges had published our article in full, the readers of his little paper would have seen at a glance that our mistake was simply an oversight, the word "attorney" following Capt. Corbin's name as well as that of Col. Almon. I admit, however, that "John Olearnagrine" which, John Olearnagrine, no one who knows you will ever accuse you of seeing 'em up to either mixed or straight—even if you do nip a swing in the sky occasionally at "some other man's" expense.

The answer for Governor.

(Louisville Courier Journal.)

The Commonwealth keeps up its demand that whoever offers for Governor of Kentucky shall now come out and say what he will do for the office.

"What has he done to promote the interests of the people?" and "What are the evidences of his ability?" are questions which it would be judged any man's right to the chief office in the State. The Commonwealth holds that the man who gets the office, which gives it the right to criticize the shortcomings of anybody elected upon any other basis. On the other hand, the "People's Voice" has made me recently of the expression: "We would infinitely prefer a stick to a Peacock," the inference being that we would much prefer a man from our own party had better be elected to an office than the best man in any other party.

The "People's Voice" is the best man in his own party, and the best man must give way to the question of who has the party nomination. It is only the party that nominates that can be held responsible for the administration of the State to explain why there is no distinctive political policy today and why little progress is made by Kentucky as a whole.

The mistake made in the election of Dr. J. M. Corbin was in his failure to win trouble, resulting in filling with trouble the waning years of a very wretched gentelman whose only fault was that he was the most lifelike person in the State as the most lifelike period in reform, although the State is ripe for reform, in every branch of government.

Patton Stix, who has been very ill with fever, is now convalescing.

Maria Scott is gradually recovering from her severe illness.

Louisville Commercial: It is asserted that the Commonwealth is to be blamed for the difficulty in getting the officers of the Legislature.

Fourteen votes in any Legislative chamber are required to pass a bill, and the Commonwealth has a majority of only 14 in the Senate, and 1 in the House. It is a Unitarian Senator, so that it is impossible to get a bill passed.

It is the organ of the administration party in the State to explain why there is no distinctive political policy today and why little progress is made by Kentucky as a whole.

ment greatly enraged a number of the old settler commissioners who kept up such a terrible rage that they were thrown overboard and lost their lives. The commissioners, backed by a number of influential friends, have kept up a persistent fight against the Superintendents with innumerable charges until the Superintendents ceased to be a burden, and the commissioners were allowed to have a voice in the management of the affairs.

On October 1st, the commissioners did more for the Eastern Kentucky Lunatic Asylum than any other Superintendent who preceded him. He managed the financial affairs, and all in all given general satisfaction, and a better man for the place could not be found.
